The Orange County Intergroup has found a new and permanent home at the Jamboree Worship Center -- 2777 McGaw Avenue - entrance at McGaw off Jamboree - cross street is Alton. All the Intergroup reps meet the second Wednesday of each month at 7:00 PM and every meeting should have a representative. If your meeting does not, you should volunteer for a really fun job.

SPIRITUAL EXPERIENCE

A profound alteration in our reaction to life.

I am grateful that I ended up as such a drunkard - very sick and close to death after years of 'drinking and drugging' from the ages of 12 to 41. An alcoholic that becomes a member of AA develops a calm personality. As a drunkard, my personality displayed anger. I was not a calm person until the book Alcoholics Anonymous provided me with clear-cut directions to a personality change. I began to display a new personality, free of anger, by practicing the directions on pages 86 to 88 of Alcoholics Anonymous. Just as those pages had described, my reaction to life began to change. My thought life did improve and hence calmness developed as I practiced the suggestions written in pages 86 to 88.

Summing up these suggestions, the Big Book says "As we go through the day we pause, when agitated or doubtful, and ask for the right thought or action. We constantly remind ourselves we are no longer running the show, humbly saying to ourselves many times each day "Thy will be done." We are then in much less danger of excitement, fear, anger, worry, self-pity, or foolish decisions."

Practicing these ideas in all my affairs puts precise direction on the more encompassing suggestions of practicing principles in all our affairs. I can't even pause every time I'm agitated, as pages 86 to 88 direct me to do, but I try to remember that I'm not running the show.

Keep your focus on pausing when agitated, and asking for an intuitive thought or decision. By doing so one's personality will display change - thus one will experience a 'spiritual experience'.

Keeping it simple comes to mind when my thinking is directed in writing this reminder to everyone. Once agitation leaves, you can practice another principle or suggestion. We can all be grateful for a calm personality/spiritual experience.

Remember that personality change and spiritual experience mean the same thing to many of us alcoholics. Please pass this on in meetings for the sake of clarity. For the sake of further clarity review pages 86 to 88 in the Big Book and the appendix titled SPIRITUAL EXPERIENCE. -- PASS IT ON

Sobriety date 12/08/99

Note:

Appendix II, SPIRITUAL EXPERIENCE, as referenced by Kevin, explains how this change can be a gradual thing, often accomplished over just a few months. Applicable parts are quoted below:

"Most of our experiences are what the psychologist William James calls the "educational variety" because they develop slowly over a period of time. Quite often friends of the newcomer are aware of the difference long before he is himself. He finally realizes that he has undergone a profound alteration in his reaction to life; that such a change could hardly have been brought about by himself alone".

"Most of us think this awareness of a Power greater than ourselves is the essence of spiritual experience."

HOW TO SPOT AN A.A. PROFESSIONAL TRADITION 8 -- Short Form

"Alcoholics Anonymous should remain forever non-professional, but our service centers may employ special workers." -- Alcoholics Anonymous, 4th Edition, Page 562.

TRADITION 8 -- Long Form

"Alcoholics Anonymous should remain forever non-professional, but our service centers may employ special workers. We define professionalism as the occupation of counseling alcoholics for fees or hire. But we may employ alcoholics where they are going to perform those services for which we might otherwise have to engage non-alcoholics. Such special services may be well recompensed. But our usual A.A. "12th Step" work is never to be paid for.

-- Alcoholics Anonymous, 4th Edition, Page 563.

In an adjacent community, the service committee had set up an office, filled it with literature, a coffee pot, and a couple of employees -- one full-time, the other part-time -- plus several volunteers.

The office manager, a woman, also happened to be the secretary of her home group. But not for long. A few members of that group began a campaign critical of her for taking money from Alcoholics Anonymous, arguing that she was professionalizing her A.A. work. Within a month the backbiting had become so insidious that the secretary was losing sleep and the central office was in constant turmoil. Just 30 days after the start of the criticism, the secretary resigned from her group commitment. A week later she stopped attending the group altogether.

Several other groups rushed to her side and she found a new home group. But she declined nomination to any office in her new group. She did continue to sponsor more than a dozen women alcoholics and attended several meetings each week, mostly in those meetings which had offered support.

You're waiting for the happy ending, right? This misadventure didn't have one. The office manager died of cancer in the mid-1980s. The fallout from the confrontation caused numerous rifts within her original group and it was unable to again regain its former stature. The critics, however, continued to stand by their actions.

When Bill Wilson wrote the Traditions in 1946, he made it absolutely clear that a secretary "could surely not be called a professional A.A." She was "not professionalizing the Twelfth Step" just making the Twelfth Step possible.

When the language in the Twelve and Twelve was pointed out to the manager's critics, they continued to insist the manager was "making money from A.A."

Revisiting the subject in 1948, Wilson noted that "our few paid workers are performing only those service tasks that our volunteers cannot consistently handle." Primarily the workers are not doing any Twelfth Step work. They are just making more and better Twelfth Step work possible.

Bill also pointed out that our paid office personnel "help carry the good news of A.A. to the outside world and bring our prospects face-to-face with us. That's not 'A.A. therapy,' it's just a lot of very necessary but thankless work."

So the next time you come across one of your central office workers, please give the person a big hug and a big thank you. They've earned it.

The GSR

Oh No, Not the GSR!!

Number 8 in a continuing series on A.A. Service

Yep, the GSR -- The General Service Representative. In fact, dear reader, you are going to be subjected to two articles about the GSR -- one this month and one next month. The first article will relate my experience, strength and hope as a GSR, (including an opinion or two). The second article, (in the September Lifeline) will introduce to the reader, a moving presentation by a non-alcoholic, of his look at the General Service Conference. Why two articles -- well, Bill W. described the GSR as probably the most important job in A.A. Who am I to disagree?

In my first Home Group, a munchkin-like man by the name of Ken '45 continuously disrupted our meetings week after week with an insistence that the group elect an Alternate GSR because the GSR we had elected wasn't showing up at the District and Area meetings. After listening to him one more time, I volunteered to be the Alternate GSR simply to shut him up! I went to my first District meeting in May 1990 and met some wonderful people that very first night. They seemed to know what they were doing. I admired their commitment to a job they thought was important to AA's welfare -- I didn't see it, but they did. The guy who was chairing the meeting, (the late Ron P.) announced that our District would be hosting the Area Service Committee meeting, (ASC) Sunday, June 10th. He asked for volunteers to help host the meeting, and I was immediately volunteered by the munchkin, Ken '45.

When I showed up at the ASC, I was shocked to find out that the meeting would last from 9:30 in the morning until 4:00 in the afternoon. My first General Service miracle – I didn't leave! A very enthusiastic gentleman by the name of Alan R. was giving an orientation for new GSRs – once again, he seemed to know what he was talking about and he was extremely committed to what he was doing. That seemed to be a constant among these people!

The big discussion of the day was about whether a new Spanish-language district should be formed to serve the AA Groups in Riverside County. I remember with great clarity, the gratitude of the Spanish-speaking members who had asked for the new district. They were grateful we were even considering the proposal! I fell in love with the Spanish-speaking AA community on that day. I didn't understand much about what was going on, but I understood gratitude! We also celebrated the 55th birthday of Alcoholics Anonymous that day with a big cake shaped and iced to look like a giant Big Book. One month later I became the GSR for my Home Group and the rest is history.

All the discussions have not been as captivating as the discussions at that first area meeting. The tone of the discussion has sometimes descended to the level of personalities before principles. The number of groups represented in General Service has continued to decline. I have gotten older and the road trips seem to be longer. But the people - thank God for the people!

Nowhere is gratitude for A.A. more evident or demonstrated so profoundly, as among the people who do this work. Gratitude for A.A. is the only possible reason why anybody would stick around for a 2-year commitment. At the end of two years, I gave up my commitment with mixed emotions. Then, that munchkin, Ken '45, nominated me for Editor of the Newsletter of the Area Assembly, and I have been in General Service, with one commitment or another ever since. Thanks, Ken.

The politics of AA? I only hear that from people who haven't done their two years. The Big Book says that Love and Tolerance is our code – we get to learn and practice both principles in General Service. I have loved my time in General Service – and the people, thank God for the people!

CONCEPT EIGHT

The Trustees of the General Service Board act in two primary capacities: (a) With respect to the larger matters of over-all policy and finance, they are the principal planners and administrators. They and their primary committees directly manage these affairs. (b) But with respect to our separately incorporated and constantly active services, the relation of the Trustees is mainly that of full stock ownership and of custodial oversight which they exercise through their ability to elect all directors of these entities.

When our boat sets sail, I am worried. Our destination is clearly laid out in the brochure and it is several hundred miles due east of our departure port.

Well, we are sailing in the wrong direction, almost due south! I decide to complain to my husband. He suggests that I "wait and see"... one of his favorite responses to my complaints.

Later in the day, I notice that we are now sailing almost due north! This can't be right, I think, but I know better than to tell my husband.

Although otherwise I am having a wonderful time, it doesn't seem right that the boat keeps changing direction again and yet again! Finally, knowing I am missing something important, I go to the navigator.

You know what happens, of course...you're all sailors or savvy about sailing, so you know that the Captain takes advantage of the best set of the sail to negotiate a wind coming from the east. The only time we sail directly east is when the wind was coming from behind us, from the west!

The navigator points out to me on the chart that although we are zigzagging across the ocean for the most part, when viewed from high above we are making straight for our destination!

The folks who own the company and map out our itinerary, give the pertinent information (like where we're going and when it would be good to get there) to the captain and his crew, who are hired to get us there in the best possible way. And they take on the daily operations.

The "heavy obligations" of determining where we are going, ultimately; what size ship best fills the needs; how the finances are handled in general to meet the needs of the company and the passengers; and how to handle the larger questions of international waters, policies, and ideals, are performed by those who planned, managed and oversaw the bigger picture...sort of like the Board of Trustees in A.A.

"...Concept [Eight] deals with the ways the General Service Board 'discharges its heavy obligations,' and its relationship with its two subsidiary corporations: A.A. World Services, Inc., and the A.A. Grapevine, Inc.

"Long experience has proven that the board 'must devote itself almost exclusively to the larger questions of policy, finance, group relations and leadership. In these matters, it must act with great care and skill to plan, manage and execute.'

"The board, therefore, must not be distracted or burdened with the details or the endless questions which arise daily in the routine operation of the General Service Office or the publishing operations, including the Grapevine. 'It must delegate its executive function' to its subsidiary, operating boards."

Although Bill W. wasn't familiar with the as-yet-to-be-coined term, I think he was warning the Board against what we now call micromanagement... "The executive direction of these functions is...lodged in the...service corporations themselves..." and the Trustees should concentrate on the bigger picture.

And, returning to my sailing vacation, we arrive at our destination port, on time, and (as far as I know) on budget. I'll bet, however, that if the captain and crew do not live up to their obligations, those overseeing the operations will quickly replace them: another one of their duties and responsibilities!

In Concept Ten (can you wait until October?) we'll discuss more about clearly defining responsibility and authority in a general way...Stay tuned!

An Opportunity for Self-examination

STEP 8: Made a list of all persons we had harmed, and became willing to make amends to them all. As one who has been going to Step meetings for years, I think we sometimes get hung up on the letter of the Steps and maybe miss the spirit. The opening paragraph on Step Eight in the "Twelve and Twelve" broadens the scope of Steps Eight and Nine with one simple declarative sentence: "Steps Eight and Nine are concerned with human relations." Yet most discussions focus on making a list and going to people and making direct amends. What about the larger question? What about why? The "Twelve and Twelve" says something else of overwhelming importance that often gets very little attention in discussions of Step Eight. It says that beyond making a list and becoming willing to mend fences with others, I must try to extract from a close examination of my human relations "every bit of information" about myself that I can. The idea is so important I'd like to quote it in full: "In many instances we shall find that though the harm done others has not been great, the emotional harm we have done ourselves has. Very deep, sometimes quite forgotten, damaging emotional conflicts persist below the level of consciousness. At the time of these occurrences, they may actually have given our emotions violent twists which have since discolored our personalities and altered our lives for the worse.

"While the purpose of making restitution to others is paramount, it is equally necessary that we extricate from an examination of our personal relations every bit of information about ourselves and our fundamental difficulties that we can..." And a little further on it says, "Calm, thoughtful reflection upon personal relations can deepen our insight. We can go far beyond those things which were superficially wrong with us, to see those flaws which were basic, flaws which sometimes were responsible for the whole pattern of our lives."

What a testament! How much more interesting and meaningful than merely a hit list of harms done and apologies in order. A list is a good start. But if that was all there were to it, I'm afraid the program would be pretty much like running the one-minute mile. You start here. You end there. You sweep off your side of the street and then what?

I can only speak for myself but I know from talking to a lot of other drunks that a lot of us never got up one morning and decided to do the program. Every time I came around to Steps Eight and Nine, I always felt cramped and hedged in with a lot of little spiritual hoops to jump through. I couldn't make a personal connection with the Step. I knew what "they" wanted me to say; but I didn't know what I wanted to say. The paragraphs I have quoted pointed the way.

This isn't a game of spiritual hopscotch where I go from one amends to the next, knocking them off like hitting beer cans on a rail fence with rocks. There is a dynamic, exciting dimension to this Step that, as it says, goes far beyond the superficial. To get all caught up in the wrong, the wronged, and the "street sweeping," I may be efficient, I may be thorough, but am I really realizing all that this Step has to offer?

When I came to Step Nine, I had the same problem. I do have some great Step Nine stories to tell at Step meetings; but I can remember telling them and feeling very empty because it was like a recitation. It was as if I had done my homework and was now giving a book report. There's so much more to making amends than just going and saying I'm sorry.

What Step Eight has done, and continues to do for me, is to make me conscious of my relations with others. It allows me to pay attention to how I behave with myself and others. It encourages me to focus on how I'm related to others and to myself. It allows me to see how fear, delusional thinking, and grandiosity made it impossible to have any kind of sane partnership with another person.

The "Twelve and Twelve" says that self-examination, meditation, and prayer can form an unshakable foundation for life. So self-examination, like everything else in AA, is an ongoing thing. Step Ten says that the time spent in looking at my relations with others will not be a joy-killer but very rewarding. It will make all the other hours of the day more interesting. And so it does. With Step Eight in my life, I don't have to be afraid of resentments, hurt feelings, or misunderstandings. I don't have to hide from these things. They are the lighthouses that describe my boundaries as an individual. Even my defects of character are interesting, because they reveal me to myself (as long as I don't turn my back on me).

So the list of harms done is not only not scary, it is the beginning of an adventure in living sober. No more fight or flight. I can stand still and deal with what is really happening. But there's another list I have to make and deal with in Step Eight if I'm going to have this healing of memories that happens when I start to look at human relations. This is the list of people who have harmed me, in real or imagined ways. I've heard people say, "Never mind about that. It's who you harmed that counts." But if I really believe I've been harmed and simply deny it, then I'm practicing something that helped make me ill to start with. I'm trying to do something I don't believe in order to be accepted, in this case by people who hold a different view of Step Eight. All my life I acquiesced to ideas I didn't believe, in order to be accepted. But the Big Book offers this challenge: "Don't let any prejudice you may have about spiritual ideas keep you from asking what they honestly mean to you."

What about these feelings of having been abused, what about the depression that comes when people don't treat me the way I think they should? Am I to brush this aside because it's the "right" thing to do?

I grew up with no clear boundaries and no sense of personal autonomy. I never knew how to stand up for myself. Sometimes it seems I'm being asked to accept unacceptable behavior and it pushes buttons from a childhood where most of the adults were alkie and much of what went on was abusive. That "acceptance" started me on the road to my own alcoholism. If I'm going to have the best possible relations with others it has to be on a basis of honesty, self-honesty first and foremost.

The "Twelve and Twelve" says we never knew how to form a true partnership with another human being. Experience has taught me that part of this learning process involves having the courage to tell those I care about that I don't like the way they are behaving, that I have a grudge or a resentment or hurt feelings. I could never do these things before, so I drank. Now that I'm sober, if I don't change my old ways, I could drink again. So I have something I call Step Eight-and-a-half; I made a list of all persons who had harmed me, in real or imagined ways, and went to them and talked things out, except when to do so would cause more harm.

I don't do this with everyone, only with people who matter--friends, family, loved ones. The deep-rooted tendency to fight or run has to be abandoned. The ability to stand still and stay with someone even when things are rocky is difficult, but Step Eight has shown me that every troubled human relation is an opportunity to get to know myself a little better. It's an invitation to face the truth about myself and the world around me in a way that will, if I persist, leave me rightly related to myself, to others, and to God. This Step is much more than a checklist of spiritual debts. It is just what Bill said it is: the high road to a new freedom.

COOPERATION WITH THE ELDER COMMUNITY

by Michael M., Chair, Area 09 standing committee
Cooperation with the Elder Community,

We were asked to write an article about our experience in becoming a Cooperation with the Elder Community standing committee in mid-southern California Area 09 in May 2005.

From its early beginnings in 1990 in southeastern New York when Cookie (who was later to become a delegate on Panel 49), a Class A trustee named Joan Jackson, and other AA members, developed a subdivision of the Special Needs Committee entitled Sober Over Sixty until today when Stan and Marion B. and many other people put together the first Sober Over Sixty conference in Kona, Hawaii in May, 2006, there has been a great need to reach out to the still suffering elder alcoholic.

The name has since been changed to Seniors In Sobriety, to be more inclusive. The 2007 SIS Conference will be held in Sedona, Arizona in May. The 2008 SIS Conference will be held in southern California.

Alcoholism among elder people has reached epidemic proportions according to the literature we read. And many elders no longer have mobility and cannot get to a meeting, for many reasons. The baby boomers of the fifties and sixties are becoming elder and this population will only increase dramatically in the next fifty years. And Alcoholics Anonymous is responding.

In July 2000, the Minneapolis 11th International AA Convention had the first "Carrying the Message to the Older Alcoholic" meeting. Since that first 'nod' from WSO that this, indeed, was an issue that deserved attention and discussion, many strides have been made.

Standing committees entitled Cooperation with the Elder Community at the area level in Area 17 and Area 09 have been approved and are up and running. There are approximately eight district-level Cooperation with the Elder Community committees within Area 09, and that number is increasing all the time. Area 03 in Arizona just voted in an area level Cooperation with the Elder Community Ad Hoc committee.

There are Seniors in Sobriety and Sober Over Sixty meetings springing up all over the country, from Colorado to New York to Florida. We've made presentations at many district meetings and been grateful and delighted with the overwhelming interest and support. This is an idea whose time has come. We've developed a beautiful and informative Area 09 approved Cooperation with the Elder Community pamphlet, which will have its first printing very soon. We're sharing a table at the 2006 National AARP Convention in Anaheim, CA with Cooperation with the Professional Community.

We've given presentations at the 2005 12th International Convention, in Toronto, Canada, the 1st Annual Sober Over Sixty Convention in Kona, Hawaii, and the 2006 PRAASA in Woodland Hills, California. We've established the first Seniors in Sobriety Big Book Study in an assisted-living facility in Long Beach, and six residents of that facility have begun attending our meeting and calling themselves alcoholics. What a thrill. I think we're doing what we're supposed to be doing.

There were some pretty terrific challenges. A large number of people at our Area level believed that elders should come under the auspices of the Special Needs Committee. We quoted our friends and mentors from Kona, Hawaii and told the Area Assembly that the process of aging was not a special need but a "universal phase of life" with its own blessings and challenges. Some people still believe that we will stumble and fall. We don't think so. We believe we're here to stay.

One of our hardworking committee members, Doug W. wrote this regarding his experience: "In preparatory efforts toward realizing the acceptance of CEC as a standing area committee, I spoke before two district meetings. I also spoke on behalf of the CEC at the Area Assembly session at which the committee was being presented for a vote. I used the source material that was available to present statistics and anecdotes pertaining to alcohol abuse among the elder population. Statistics from Orange County were most effective.

My main point at the Area Assembly was that the committee would help carry the load rather than invade other committees' turf. I also used the source material to propose that my District include CEC as a standing District committee and made myself available to answer questions. I found unexpected support and opposition at all sessions."

Our terrific committee secretary, Bob Mc, wrote this: During the CEC Committee ad hoc period, we shared published studies and did our own research into the magnitude of the problem of elder alcoholics. I was surprised to find that alcoholism among the elder population is statistically at epidemic proportions, yet it is mostly unreported, misdiagnosed or ignored. There is a mountain of material out there that validates the seriousness of problem drinking among elders. This same material concludes that little is being done about it. For example, one survey shows that the prevalence of problem drinking in nursing homes is as high as 49%, yet less than 17% of treatment facilities have programs tailored for elders. Another statistic that caught my attention was that elders have recovery rates as high as 85%, IF THEY ARE INTRODUCED TO TREATMENT PROGRAMS! That did it for me. If I can carry the message to just one elder alcoholic, then both of us can be happy, joyous and free." We owe many people our gratitude for helping to make this possible, not the least of whom is our past Area Chair, Bruce H. who believed in the need and believed in us. Thank you, Bruce!

And, as a confused and new GSR several years ago, I would never have had such a remarkable opportunity if not for the insistence of my then service sponsor, Lois B. to attend my first PRAASA, in 2004. Thank you, Lois! That is where I first heard Marion and Stan B. speak about alcoholism and the elder and became passionate about wanting the hand of AA always to be there, for the elder alcoholic.

INTERVIEW WITH GOD

I dreamed I had an interview with God. "So you would like to interview me?" God asked.

"If you have the time" I said.

God smiled. "My time is eternity. What questions do you have in mind for me?"

"What surprises you most about humankind?"

God answered, "That they get bored with childhood. They rush to grow up and then long to be children again".

"That they lose their health to make money and then lose their money to restore their health."

"That by thinking anxiously about the future, they forget the present, such that they live neither in the present or the future. That they live as if they will never die, and die as if they had never lived".

God's hand took mine and we were silent for awhile. And then I asked... "As a parent, what are some of life's lessons you want your children to learn?"

God replied with a smile. "To learn they cannot make anyone love them. What they can do is let themselves be loved."

"To learn that it is not good to compare themselves to others."

"To learn that a rich person is not one who has the most, but is one who needs the least".

"To learn that it only takes a few seconds to open profound wounds in persons we love, and it takes many years to heal them."

"To learn to forgive by practicing forgiveness".

"To learn that there are persons who love them dearly, but simply do not know how to express their feelings."

"To learn that two people can look at the same thing and see it differently".

"To learn that it is not always enough that they be forgiven by others, but that they must forgive themselves."

And to learn that I am here always".

With faith, ALL things are possible.

THE LIFELINE
1526 BROOKHOLLOW, SUITE 75
SANTA ANA, CA 92705

Published monthly by the Orange County Intergroup Association

Purpose: The Orange County Lifeline Committee is a committee of volunteer A.A. members, charged with the responsibility of producing and distributing the Orange County Lifeline, (a publication of the Orange County Intergroup Association). The Lifeline is published monthly and is supported solely through contributions from the A.A. groups and members of Orange County. The Lifeline is published to meet the following needs of the Orange County A.A. membership: to inform the A.A. membership regarding A.A. service, A.A. events and A.A. announcements; also to share experience in recovery, unity and service; to keep the A.A. membership informed regarding the actions, finances and meetings of the Orange County Intergroup Association and other Central Office committees.

Lifeline Committee: We meet the 1st Thursday of each month at the Central Office. Join us @ 7PM.

CENTRAL OFFICE CALL FORWARDING SHIFTS

Call-forwarding is the program instituted by Orange County Central Office whereby, during hours when the Central Office is closed, calls to the Central Office are forwarded to your phone and you answer the calls, just as if you were sitting in the Central Office as a volunteer. This service allows the Central Office to realize a significant cost savings because we do not need to contract to a vendor to answer the phone and forward the call on to a central Office 12th Step volunteer. Even more vital, when a call is placed to Alcoholics Anonymous, the caller will be talking to an A.A. member not a paid private worker! Many of the shifts listed below are currently filled by A.A. members. If you see a shift that you would be able to take, please call the Central Office at (714) 556-4555 to determine if that shift is currently unfilled

In order to volunteer for this service, you must first arrange with the Central Office Manager for a brief orientation session which will be held at the Central Office. This truly is "front – line" 12th Step work and we would appreciate any time you can give.

All of these committees are based through the Orange County Central Office and so share a common phone number, which is (714) 556-4555, and a common e-mail address, which is ocaa7664@sbcglobal.net. Committee activities usually need some volunteers.

TO GET INVOLVED - Call the Central Office and find out what you can do to help. You will absolutely love the way you feel if you give back some of your time by volunteering.

The listed speakers have been invited by the respective groups and their message does not imply the endorsement of the Orange County Intergroup nor their Central Office.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

Many A.A. members celebrate their AA Birthday by sending a donation to Central Office. These donations help to keep the doors of the office open so that new members may receive the same help so many of us already have. Others make a quarterly donation, or simply make Personal Contributions. All donations are greatly appreciated.
